CHANCE FOR IRISH PEACE MUCH BETTER NOW, BELIEF

Craig Tells Of Catholic Co-operation

PACT APPROVED

Meetings In Belfast And Dublin Ratify Truce

(Reuter's Service)

London, April 5.—There is a somewhat more hopeful feeling with regard to the prospect of Irish peace.

In a speech yesterday in the North Irish House of Commons Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, mentioned the fact that certain Catholics in Belfast had expressed a wish to help the authorities to restore order. He hoped that before the end of the year Catholics would be sitting in the Ulster Parliament but, he declared, he would not be the man to lead Ulster into the Free State.

A meeting of business men in Belfast and of Southern Unionists in Dublin yesterday approved the agreement between the Northern and Southern Governments.

Donegal, April 4.—Armed men held up the train from Londonderry today and burned the Londonderry newspapers that were on board. They were heavily armed and fairly bristled with weapons and when the order was given to proceed, the engine driver removed a load of care from the hearts of passengers by getting underway in rapid time.

Mulligan, April 4.—Armed men destroyed a flour shipment on a freight train which they raided.

Limerick, April 4.—Two bombs shattered the windows of the Young Men's Christian Association building here today.

Belfast, April 4.—Southern officials announced that the operations of the Sinn Feiners along the Ulster border had ceased.

London, April 4.—In reply to questions in the House of Commons this afternoon, Mr. Winston Churchill said that in the course of the disturbances in Belfast between Ferbuary 10 and March 26, 32 Protestants and 51 Catholics had been killed and 86 Protestants and 115 Catholics wounded. One military officer and six police, three of whom were Catholics, had been killed and a number wounded.

U. S. Vessels In Philippine Trade

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, March 25.—Vessels of the United States Shipping Board carried 37 percent of the incoming and outgoing freight of the Philippines last year, according to figures just published by the customs authorities. British ships came next with 34 percent, and Japanese third with 19.5 percent. The average import cargo on Shipping Board vessels was 2,151 tons as compared with 1,071 tons for British vessels and 1,880 for Japanese.

Export cargoes averaged 1,461 tons on American ships, 1,231 on British ships, and 967 on Japanese.

The total number of Shipping Board vessels entering Philippine ports was 192 in 1921. During that period 264 British vessels and 135 Japanese entered.

Manila To Deport Wealthy Chinese Opium Smuggler

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, March 21.—Ko Ken-sing, a wealthy Chinese resident of the Philippines, is soon to be deported for repeated violations of the opium laws, it was announced yesterday by C. W. Franks, secretary to the Governor General.

Several cases are pending against Ko, but the legal authorities have been instructed to drop them in order to facilitate the deportation proceedings.

FILMS OF MARY'S WEDDING CAUSE MIXUPS IN N.Y.

Cinema Men And Reporters Fight To Get Them First

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 8.—A series of races, a small riot and a few skirmishes with revenue men today marked the efforts of an army of motion picture company representatives and newspaper men to be first in getting pictures of Princess Mary's wedding off the steamship Olympic.

When the liner steamed to quarantine, eight tugs, bearing the newspaper and film men dashed down the bay and puffed alongside until she was cleared. Then there was a mad scramble from the tugs to the purser's rooms.

"Sorry," said the besieged purser. "Can't give them to you until the ship docks. It's orders."

The storm of indignation that followed brought the Olympic's skipper from the cabin. He listened to the waling for a moment, then told the purser to release pictures to all those holding orders and passing government requirements.

The purser gave them their pictures. Then in the scramble for the deck, passengers and crew alike were swept to one side.

One film man placed his package in a small tin cylinder, atop which were several toy balloons, and was about to toss it overboard to be picked up by his partner on a tug when he was collared by a secret service agent. He was taken before a special appraiser who passed his package as O. K. As he stormed down the deck a woman stopped him and offered to purchase the balloons for her children.

One newspaper man got his package overboard. It was picked up by a tug, which had steamed about 300 yards when halted by a revenue cutter. After determining that the package had been cleared regularly, the tug was permitted to proceed.

Others tossed pictures and films to tugs which hustled to shore, transferred their small cargoes to fast automobiles and, their work done, nosed to their piers.

The race was declared a dead heat. All New York morning papers printed pictures of the wedding in early editions and motion picture houses flashed them on their screens.

Engineers Hear Talks On Shanghai Harbor Problem And Progress At Canton

Mr. H. Von Heidenstam Addresses Conference Of Chinese-American Association; Delegates Making Trip To Hangchow Today

Papers on Shanghai's harbor problem and on the recent remarkable achievements in public service engineering in Canton were the outstanding features of yesterday's session of the Association of Chinese and American Engineers, now holding their third annual conference here. The papers were by Mr. H. von Heidenstam, Engineer-in-Chief of the Whangpoo Conservancy Board, and Mr. Tse Tsok-kai, director of the Kwangtung Electrical Supply Company, of Canton.

In the morning the engineers paid visits to the International Testing House on Hongkong Road and to the Municipal Sewage Disposal Experiment Station on Kinnear Road, returning for a tiffin which was attended by some sixty members at the Union Club. Today the delegates will go to Hangchow by the morning train, returning tomorrow evening. They attended a banquet last evening at the Union Club, a pleasant social affair marked by enlivening impromptu speeches.

HARBOR DEVELOPMENT

In his address on "Harbor Development in Shanghai," Mr. von Heidenstam emphasised the important educational part which foreign trained and experienced Chinese engineers must play in awakening the mind of the people to the importance of better facilities for foreign trade and intercourse.

"If it be true, that the World needs China and China needs the World—'Improved communications' must be a watchword in this country," declared Mr. von Heidenstam.

In a few trenchant remarks the speaker sketched the position of Shanghai as a link in the present and future transportation system of China and in relation to the general trade routes on the Pacific. He then went on to give a short resume of the development of the harbor of Shanghai, as far as it has proceeded and sketched in bold outlines the problem of future development. He described the investigations made by the Conservancy Board and the proposals submitted by the Committee of Expert Engineers, called by the Conservancy Board, last October.

OUTLINES HARBOR REPORT

Mr. von Heidenstam went over the main points of the Experts' Report which has now been put forward for the consideration of the Chinese Government and all the interests concerned. He then described the detailed means proposed to deal with the approaches and with the harbor proper and gave interesting data as to the various technicial alternatives which had had to be considered for the solution of the problem such as: a new outlet to the Whangpoo, a port de vitesse on the Hangchow Bay or elsewhere in the vicinity, connected with Shanghai, and the creation of locked harbor basins. He also exhibited and explained a number of fine drawings and plans.

Finally he touched upon the difficulties of realising the ideal solution in any port development. In the case of Shanghai, while at least from certain points of view and certainly in regard to general navigational improvement of the approaches and harbor, the Report of the Committee may be considered as the best possible solution, there undoubtedly were difficulties in the way. One difficulty was the question of public wharves in relation to private enterprise.

MUST REALISE NEED

Another difficulty, specific for China, is the fact that so far the ranks of the population do not realise the importance of transoceanic trade in relation to the general prosperity of the country, and its inhabitants. "Nagigare necesse" must be impressed in letters of fire in the mind of all those who have the welfare of China at heart, and are in such a position as to be able to influence its future development. For all these it must be made clear that it is necessary to create modern deep water harbors with all modern appliances for rapid handling of cargo. This must be done, not indiscriminately here and there, as suggested by individual concession hunters and concession profiteers, but according to a well conceived, national system in which a few main ports must figure prominently. If this be not done, China will in respect to its trade remain largely dependent on foreign centers.

On account of present conditions, these port improvements for ocean traffic cannot very well be made without the help and in co-operation with foreign interests but ultimately these harbors which have been constructed along the Chinese coast will benefit the Chinese merchant fleet and will become the decisive factor for China itself to conduct its trade with distant countries.

THE ENGINEER'S MISSION

In this respect it seemed to the speaker that the modern educated Chinese engineer—who has seen the transportation system in Western countries working and the wonderful activities of the ports of London, New York, San Francisco—has a great mission to fulfill. These ports have become great by a combination of

SCORERS SPEEDERS IN SENTENCING DRIVER FOR DEATH

Chauffeur Given Six Months For Killing Little Foreign Girl

"There is too much careless driving in Shanghai. Motor cars too often drive at a dangerous speed. On the same day that this little girl was killed there were three other fatalities as the result of motor car accidents here and drivers must be more careful."

Severe criticism of speeding motorists was passed in the Mixed Court yesterday by British Assessor Blackburn when he and magistrate Yui imposed sentence of six months' imprisonment upon one Tsu Ping-sheng, the chauffeur who rode down and killed eight-year-old Gardia Willuda on North Szechuen Road last Monday morning.

"The driver of the motor car was guilty of gross carelessness," Assessor Blackburn said in passing sentence. "From the evidence it appears that the chauffeur was driving at a speed of 15 miles an hour, which considering that the spot where the accident occured is a dangerous one, is an exeessive speed. In Shanghai all motor car drivers must be constantly ready for such emergencies as this case. Almost parallel cases occur a dozen times a day. The people in China are not used to motor cars as they are in London and are themselves careless and that element must be taken into consideration by drivers here.

TELLS OF ACCIDENT

Mr. R. C. Faithful, the police prosecutor, presented the case on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. August Willuda, parents of the little girl. Sergt. Young of the Traffic squad was the first witness called and testified as to the scene where the accident occured and the arrest of the chauffeur. In his testimony he said he had ridden in the car from the scene to the police station and that the brakes were in good condition. The driver, he said, should have been able to stop the car within two car lengths.

Mr. Edward D. Minford of the Standard Oil Company, who witnessed the accident, said he was standing near the corner of North Szechuen Road and Paoshan Road when he saw the little girl start across the street.

"Just as the little girl was crossing the street I saw an automobile approaching," Mr. Minford said. "It was traveling at a fast speed and I realised the girl was in danger and attempted to save her. Richas blocked my path and before I could reach her she was struck in the back by the car and knocked about five feet. Both wheels passed over her. I did not hear the chauffeur sound his horn, and the car went about 100 feet before stopping. Before the car stopped, Mr. T. Soyishima, the owner, jumped out and ran back to the girl. We put her in the machine and took her to the General Hospital but she died within a minute or two."

CHAUFFEUR GRINNED

"The driver," Mr. Minford continued, "had a grin on his face

Tram Company Granted Right To Install Railless Loop In Downtown District

Suggestion Of Leeds, England, Expert, Approved —New Scheme Aims At Relief Of Traffic Congestion During The Rush Hours

Shanghai will have a railless tram loop in its downtown district as well as considerably enlarged tramway facilities both for passengers and freight if the Tramway Company accepts concessions that have been granted by the Municipal Council. This is disclosed in further correspondence of the Municipal Council with the Company on the subject of tramway extensions published in the current issue of the Municipal Gazette.

In a letter addressed to the company from the Council it is set forth that a number of the suggestions, and particularly that for a loop service on The Bund between Avenue Edward VII and Canton Road, presented by Mr. J. B. Hamilton have been approved. Mr. Hamilton is Commercial Manager of the City of Leeds, England, and is a recognised authority on tramway questions.

The general purpose of establishing a tram loop service is to relieve traffic congestion on Nanking Road and The Bund. Sanction for the loop service is given as an experiment and on condition that the company will increase the frequency of the service in rush hours. In making this grant the council reserves the right, in the event that it proves unsatisfactory, to remove the loop service and revert to present track arrangements.

FREIGHT SERVICE

Introduction of railless frieght traffic service under conditions that are defined also is sanctioned by the Council. Such traffic shall not be operated over any road or bridge forbidden to licensed motor vehicles, however, and shall not be operated upon any route on which authorisation has been given for an extension of passenger traffic until the extended passenger service shall have been inaugurated. It is required also that operation of railless freight vehicles shall be suspended at such hours of the day as in the opinion of the Council such operation would interfere with the efficiency of passenger service.

The Council has decided to withhold sanction for the use of trailers on railless routes until the Company has placed in service one trailer by which the suitability of using trailers generally is to be judged.

It is set forth that if the project to put a railless tram service on Avenue Edward VII is carried out it preferably should be from The Bund as far as Manila Road and thence to the junction of Manila Road with Avenue Foch.

No requirement is to be made concerning removal of rail tracks on North Szechuen Road until the effect of several railless routes authorised has been guaged when it will be determined definitely whether the rail or the railless system is most suitable for North Szechuen Road. Authorisation is given the company to extend its existing line from the Rifle Range to the Hongkew Recreation Ground and to double rail lines now single.

BROADWAY PLANS

A change the company has been asked to make is a shifting of the landing station at the corner of Mohawk Road and Bubbling Well Road where it is desired that the track be moved about 12 feet south and the landing platform be constructed as part and in extension of the footpath adjoining the Race Club wall. The doubling of the track on Broadway through its length also is authorised.

Another of the suggestions of Mr. Hamilton that the Council has accepted is that the Company shall pay in connection with rail and railless extensions in addition to the royalty of five percent on gross receipts a sum of $.02 per car mile and should apply to all car mileage run by the railless frieght and passenger services.

PRINCE OF WALES ENCOUNTERS FOG NEAR HONGKONG

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, April 5.—The weather, which has been hot and most oppressive for the past few days, suddenly became 10 degrees cooler today, but an unusually heavy fog prevails at sea.

A message from Daguilar this afternoon stated that the fog there was extraordinarily thick, and it was impossible to see half a mile ahead, the harbor entrance being enveloped in fog.

H.M.S. Foxglove will proceed to Daguilar in the course of this afternoon to take up its station in readiness for bringing in the Renown.

The general Officer Commanding, Sir John Fowler, paid an official visit early this afternoon to the Japanese admiral Monotake.

Hongkong, April 5.—The Governor of Macao has arrived to take part in the Prince of Wales's reception.

JAPANESE AND CHITA ARMIES NOW IN CONFLICT

Eighty Far Eastern Republic Soldiers Slain

TOKIO "EXPLAINS"

Publicity Bureau Tries To Justify Use Of Force

(China Press Service)

Tokio, April 4.—Dispatches from Vladivostok state that 800 Chita Government forces attacked the Japanese 100 miles from Vladivostok when the latter demanded that the Russians disarm. Eighty of the Chita forces were killed.

Reinforcements to the Chita forces have renewed the attack and fighting continues along the Ussuri river.

The following is the note of Mr. Yanson, the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Far Eastern Republic, addressed to the Government of the United States of America on March 13, just as the present movement on Vladivostok was begun:

Department of State,
United States of America.

The Government of the Far Eastern Republic has been informed that the counter-revolutionary organisations in the southern section of the Maritime Province headed by the so-called Merkuloff Government intend, when evacuating the city of Vladivostok, to carry away with them the state property of the Far Eastern Republic, including Russian vessels now in the port of Vladivostok.

The Government of the Far Eastern Republic has been also informed of the ficticious transfer of Russian state property to foreigners by individuals and by the Merkuloff Government. The Government of the Far Eastern Republic cannot refrain from protesting against the plundering of the Republic's property by irresponsible elements hostile to the people of the Russian Far East.

CHITA HELPLESS

Unfortunately, the Government of the Far Eastern Republic is unable, because of the existing military and political situation in the southern section of the Maritime Province, to stop by force the pillage of the nation's property.

Taking into consideration the friendly attitude of the United States Government to the Far Eastern Republic, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs hopes that the United States Government will extend every assistance to our Government in the matter. The Government of the Far Eastern Republic would greatly appreciate it if the United States Government and the American representatives at Vladivostok were to exercise their influence to prevent the export of Russian state property from Vladivostok until the legal authority of the Far Eastern Republic has been re-established there.

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs has been further informed that the Consular Corps at Vladivostok was in favor of arming the Russian counter-revolutionaries under the pretext of maintaining order in the city. The Government of the Far Eastern Republic wishes to state that it considers the arming of the elements which are directing their activities against the Far Eastern Republic, as an openly hostile act against the Republic, and wishes to point out that the arming of such elements, be it under the pretext of maintaining order at Vladivostok, will postpone the establishment of legal authority and peace there.

HOPES FOR AID

The Government of the Far Eastern Republic wishes to express the belief that the United States Government and the American representatives at Vladivostok will take every measure to stop the arming of the elements hostile to the Far Eastern Republic.

(Signed) J. Yanson, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Far

Eastern Republic.—Chita, March 28, 1922.

In connection with the foregoing, a telegram of March 28 announced that the Vladivostok radio station at Russky Ostrov had been turned over to the Japanese military command by the Merkulofist Russo-Japanese conciliatory commission.

The "Way of the Far East," official organ of the Chita Government, in an article entitled "In the 'Neutral' Zone" says: "The Japanese are accustomed to act by roundabout ways. They desire that their intervention should become habitual in the course of life of the Far Eastern Republic. We are not fighting the Japanese in the 'neutral' zone; we are persecuting the rebels in our own territory. We are not going to stop our pursuit of the rebels, nor shall we allow the Japanese to keep on playing hide-and-seek. As it was at the time of our first onslaught at Chita, we will either compel them to commit themselves by open support of the rebels or to give way to our troops in our own territory."

The following statement was telegraphed to THE CHINA PRESS yesterday by the Japanese Publicity Bureau at Vladivostok. It gives the Japanese side of the controversy in Siberia:

"Recently when the Chita army, in pursuit of the retreating White forces which had evacuated Haborovsk, approached the zone which, under the Russo-Japanese agreement was to remain neutral, Mr. Yanson, the Chita foreign minister, made the groundless charge that Japanese troops were assisting the Whites in the neutral zone. He then advised the Japanese foreign office that the Chita government considered the Russo-Japanese agreement null and void. The Japanese government, however, declined to accept this as final, and informed the Chita government that Japan would continue to regard the agreement as being in full force.

"At the same time, the Japanese government, being eager to avoid friction, disarmed the Whites who entered the neutral zone, and sent southward a detachment which had endangered communications, and which had fired upon a Japanese patrol.

"Notwithstanding this glaring violation of the Russo-Japanese agreement, and wishing to settle the matter peacefully, the Japanese command advised the Chita government through its representative at Dairen to reconsider its attitude.

"In spite of these Japanese efforts the Chita army gradually increased its strength and on April 1 it moved an armored train to Spassko, and opened fire on the Japanese outposts. The Chita army, refusing to give the Japanese credit for sincerity, and despite the utmost efforts of the Japanese forces to bring about a settlement in accordance with the Russo-Japanese agreement, opened fire on the Japanese, thus compelling the Japanese to resort to force to stop them.

"It is clear, therefore, that the whole responsibility for trampling the Russo-Japanese agreement under foot, and for disregarding the repeated and sincere warnings of the Japanese must rest with the Chita government."

NEW REGISTER WANTED

The Chinese General Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai has addressed a letter to the National Federation of Chinese Chambers of Commerce drawing attention to the necessity of compiling a new register of all the Chambers of Commerce in China and of Chinese Chambers of Commerce abroad. The last work of the kind, which was compiled by the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce in the 8th year of the Min Kuo (1919), was based on data available to the Ministry at that time. Owing to the increase in the number of Chinese Chambers of Commerce since that time, and owing to the changes in the personnel of these organisations, the work is now out of date.

private enterprise and public co-operation in the form of Harbor Boards or Trusts, and on lines such as have been proposed for Shanghai.

By influencing the opinion of the leaders of his country, the modern Chinese engineer can assist towards a proper solution of the problems of communications on land, by water and air. These should be given a very conspicuous place on a constructive program for the development of China, in the formulation, as well as realisation of which the Chinese engineer is destined and should be prepared to play an important part.

TELLS OF CANTON WORKS

Mr. Tse Tsok-kai's paper on "Public Service Engineering in Canton" was read to the meeting by Mr. P. P. Whitham, Mr. Tse having been prevented from attending the conference.

The paper dealt in interesting fashion with the developments and improvements which have taken place in the past few years in the Southern capital's lighting and power facilities, waterworks, telephone and transportation systems and in city works generally, including the remarkable strides which have been made in broadening and bettering the streets.

Of particular interest were the portions dealing with transportation and highway development. A franchise for tramway construction was granted in 1919, with the organisation of the Bureau of Municipality, to a Chinese-British concern and it is a probability that tram tracks will be laid in the near future. At the present time the company is operating a system of buses, inaugurated in February, 1921, which has proved very popular—so much so in fact that the ricsha coolies are threatening to go on strike and it is felt that the days of their plyings are nearly over. The company at present is operating fourteen buses and ten trailers over specially constructed streets.

BROAD STREETS NOW

Eleven miles of streets with a width of from 70 to 150 feet have been constructed in Canton since the Bureau of Municipality took charge. The first work undertaken by that body was the demolition of the old city walls, six and a half miles of which have now been torn down. Modern roads of macadam or concrete finish mark the line where the masonry had been standing since the 11th century and the only portion of the wall still remaining is that on the high elevation to the North of the city. The bricks and sandstone taken from the walls was used for road building, forming the base for the macadam or "lime concrete" surfacing. There are today about 24½ miles of modern roads suitable for automobile traffic, where two years ago not even a flivver could operate.

The city has a definite street policy, namely that all narrow thoroughfares shall eventually be widened, and whenever a building is rebuilt it is set back to the prescribed building line—the retrocession often being as great as fifteen feet. In carrying out a scheme for 4½ miles of broadened streets within the walls 3,297 buildings were condemned, while in developing the city wall roads 3,276 buildings fell under the ban of the city engineers. Of these 1-3 were completely demolished and the remainder were partly destroyed. By the street widenings it has been found that the fire hazard has been greatly lessened.

PARKS ARE PLANNED

Other city improvements under way or planned include the establishment of three public gardens, one to enclose a public athletic field.

There is in Kwangtung also a Bureau of Public Highways organised to construct roads throughout the province. Of the 93 districts affected, 32 are expected to complete 80 li of roads each year, 38 districts 50 li and 23 districts 25 li each, until the present road plan is completed. Under this plan it is estimated that about 8,500 li of highway will be constructed in the province. Of this 206 li have already been finished and 1,000 li are under construction.

Mr. Simpson Favors Representation At Genoa Conference

Mr. B. Lennox Simpson, Advisor to the Chinese Government, has filed a memorandum with the Peking administration, favoring the sending of delegates to the Genoa Conference. He maintains that in view of the economic relations with the Far Eastern Government, the European countries will soon recognise the state.

Mr. Simpson believes that China should concentrate her attention on two main issues at this conference, namely: the Chinese Eastern Railway and the Urga controversy.

Mr. Simpson was attached to the Chinese delegation to the Washington Conference on the Limitation on Armaments.

Shanghai Rotary Club Elects New Officers

Hawkings, vice-president; Mr. K. B. Chun, treasurer; Dr. Julian Petit, secretary. These officers and the following constitute the Board of Directors: Messrs. T. C. Britton, T. E. TO ABOLISH TAX

(Reuter's Service)

The Hague, April 4.—In the course of a debate in the Chamber today on the East Indies Tariff Amendment Bill, the Colonial Minister announced that the special tax on mineral oils would be abolished at the end of the year.

A motion, demanding the immediate abolition of the tax was carried by 18 votes to 16. Finally the bill, which provided for an increase in export duties of 25 percent was rejected by 19 votes to 15.

and acted like he'd run over a dog instead of a little child. The road was clear when the little girl started across the street and in my judgment the driver could have turned to the left a few feet and missed hitting her."

Mr. Soyishima, owner of the car, told the same story, stating, however, that the driver had swerved the car in an effort to avoid the collision. He admitted that the driver had not applied the brakes before the accident.

The driver, on the stand in his own defense, asserted that he had turned first to the right and then to the left in an effort to avoid striking her, but that the little girl was then running straight ahead of him and his efforts were fruitless.

Mrs. Willuda was a pathetic figure when she took the stand to tell how the story of the accident came to her. Speaking English brokenly, with a German accent and unable to comprehend fully some of the questions asked, she told the story in her own way while tears trickled down her cheeks.

AMAH BRINGS NEWS

The amah in charge of the child had rushed home frantic and in pidgin-English attempted to explain what had happened. The mother, uncomprehending the sense of the amah's garbled and disjointed tale, but realising something had happened to her little girl, rushed into the street crying for "Little Gerta, Little Gerta."

Then a Chinese had told her the little tot had been taken to the hospital and she ran in frantic haste there. When she arrived life had passed out of the broken and bruised little body.

The amah disappeared after telling the mother of the accident, and in passing sentence the Assessor said that unquestionably she had been negligent in the performance of her duty but that that did not mitigate the criminal carelessness of the chauffeur.

Another motor car fatality, the fourth within the past five days, occupied the attention of Mixed Court officials yesterday when an inquest was held over the body of a Chinese boy 14 or 15 years old who was run down and killed on Nanking Road near Fokien Road Tuesday night. According to the testimony, the youth had run in front of the motor from behind a tram car and the driver was not held to be at fault.

London, April 5.—A sensational Trade Union split has occurred in the engineering dispute. The Amalgamated Engineering Union, which is tenaciously opposing the employers' claim to exercise managerial rights in their establishments, is now isolated in consequence of 47 other unions equally concerned deciding to negotiate on an agreed basis. Sixty thousand amalgamated engineers have up to the present been locked out, while over half a million other members of unions will be similarly liable on April 6. It is anticipated, however, that notices will be suspended, pending the resumption of discussions.

The breakaway from the Amalgamated Union followed a whole day's discussion with the Prime Minister, who unsuccessfully endeavored to persuade the members of the Amalgamated Union to participate in the general agreement.

A leading Amalgamated Unionist declares that it is the intention of the union to fight to the bitter end.

HOW TO "GROW" A NEW COMPLEXION

These are the days of "hustling." In a week we see and do more than our grandmothers did in a year. We are gradually turning nature to be our servant; we use her great forces against herself. We have conquered sea and sky, now our doctors are fighting not only disease, but old age. There is talk of rejuvenating human beings by the injection of animal glands, but as yet, only the few can avail themselves of the treatment.

There is, however, one secret of perpetual youth that is in the reach of everyone. Scientists now realise that the only way of keeping the skin young and fresh is to examine Nature's methods and to find some way of imitating her.

SCIENTIFIC BEAUTY.

In order to explain the new method of keeping the complexion perpetually youthful, one must understand something of the nature of the skin. A baby's skin is always clear and smooth because the outer layer is always invisibly peeling off, and new layers are forming just as fast underneath, so that the exposed skin is always fresh, unwrinkled and "new."

For the first few years of our lives, this peeling is a purely natural process, but as we grow older, we gradually lose the power of throwing off our soiled outer skins, so that our complexions become lined and yellow, and the new skin has no chance to show itself.

A few years ago, a scientific chemist realised that a little-known substance called mercolised wax, was exactly what was needed to "keep nature up to the mark." It appears that this substance, which is now universally obtainable, gently and painlessly assists nature in throwing off the soiled outer cuticle. The skin is thus perpetually renewed, and a clear youthful complexion can be preserved to any age. (Advt.)

Discovered Too Late

TOO often the failure of men to provide for their families is not discovered till their death. Property may not be fully paid for, debts may have accumulated, titles may be questionable, wills may be defective, or savings be inadequate. The consequences of such failures are often so serious that it is hard to see how men can be willing to take any chances.

IN such an important matter as this too great care cannot be exercised. The duty is one that a husband and father should be glad to perform—and to be sure that he had performed it.

THE one sure means for meeting this duty is life insurance. It is within reach of even moderate incomes. There is no other safe way whereby a man, for a small investment, can immediately create an estate that will fully protect his family.

Preventative Medicine.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventative measures. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. Pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, often follows a cold or attack of the grip. The cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the pneumonia germs. The longer the cold hangs on, the greater the danger. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the first indication of a cold appears so as to get rid of it with the least possible delay. It is folly to risk an attack of pneumonia when this remedy may be obtained for a trifle.

Your Health Comes First

Good Health is your most valuable asset—its preservation should, therefore, receive your most careful consideration. An important point which should always be borne in mind is the fact that a great many forms of ill-health can be traced, directly or indirectly, to disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. See to it, therefore, to keep these organs in healthy activity. When they show any signsof derangement let that reliable medicine, Beecham's Pills, be taken at once. Always deal with digestive ailments in time. They are far-reaching in their possibilities of mischief if neglected, as they too-often are. And yet it is generally easy to keep fit and well and free from many debilitating ailments by the simple use of

CHANEY LOSES DECISION TO SAILOR BOTLEY IN FINAL OF FIRST NIGHT OF TOURNAMENT

Local Boxing Club Men Win Two Out Of Three Bouts With Navy; Fight-fest Closes Tonight With Star Attraction Bowdidge vs. Harkins

Just the smallest boxing shade lost Joe Chaney, Shanghai's new fighting find, the final bout on the first night of the boxing tournament between the Shanghai Amateur Boxing Club and the sailors of the British cruiser Carlisle at the Town Hall last night. Sailor Botley, of the Carlisle, by keeping away from the aggressive Chaney, and shooting in sharp little stinging hooks and jabs managed to win a narrow advantage. The fight was one of the closest and best ever seen in Shanghai.

In other events between the Club and the Navy, the landsmen came off easy winners. Carlson in the first event had the edge in three of his six rounds against the sailor, Charlesworth, and held honors even in the other half. Baby Siemsen of the Club had the same advantage over Tollemache of the Carlisle. He held his own in three rounds and had a good advantage in the others. Of the three bouts between Clubmen and sailors, the local boys won two and lost one, the one lost being the feature event, the final.

Chaney might have won his bout with Botley had he not been so persistently aggressive. He started after the sailor at the tap of the gong and never changed his style through the whole 10 rounds. Botley was waiting always poised for the opening which always come, and with cutting short and jabs and hooks managed to meet the local boxer for a slight advantage in honors. Had Chaney changed his pace after the first few rounds he might have taken the fighting sailor out of his stride and won at least a draw.

THE MAIN EVENT

The bout opened with both men feeling around, Botley giving way to Chaney, who was forcing a fast pace. Chaney got in a left and a right jab to the face which looked like stingers. There was considerable quick close up mixing and a little clinching, but no other blows of note reached home. Botley feinted often, while Chaney was working in but nothing of consequence resulted. The round was even.

In the second round the men exchanged several light face jabs, after which Chaney got in two heavy hooks to the jaw. Botley however came back with two good right short swings to the face, and after some harmless mixing the round ended with honors even.

Botley got a shade in the third round with several sharp short hooks to the face with both hands which he followed up with a good right swing to the jaw. Chaney was still coming, but when he got fairly close to the sailor he was met with a fighting defense. In the close-up in-fighting however, Chaney appeared to have a little the better of it, but Botley was good at covering so that no damage resulted. Botley had a shade on the round.

The fourth and fifth rounds were even. The fighters had settled down to steady milling, mixed with even-up slugging and numerous clinches. Chaney landed a strong short left swing in the fifth. No other points were worthy of mention. In the sixth Chaney scored his first real advantage. After Botley landed a stinging left hook to the face, Chaney came out the better from a strong milling passage. He put through one or two short hooks which had the sailor worried. He took the round, the only advantage he had in the bout.

Botley had a little shade in the seventh and eighth rounds meeting Chaney as he came in with his short jabs and hooks. In the seventh he had the Shanghai man twice knocked back against the ropes, and once again when Chaney was off his feet he dropped him to his knees. The fighting was not important, though the sailor had the edge. The last two rounds were even. In the ninth Chaney rushed the pace a bit registering one nice right hook but Botley equalised with two fair facers. Milling around and clinching closed the ninth. The tenth was slow and not important. Each got in some small punches to the face but no damage was done.

THE PRELIMINARIES

Seimsen's win over Tollemache was one of the best bouts of the night. The local boy went at the fighting hastily, maybe anxiously, and though he had the best of the bout from the opening round, with his clever boxing and strong offensive, he was met with long reach and nice defense. He might have scored a wider margin of win had he fought more slowly, though the sailor was a smart boxer and also might have fared better in a different style of bout.

Carlson's win over Charlesworth was popular. The sailor showed much improvement in his boxing capacity since his last appearance here, and at times it looked like he might take the event. Carlson however was good both at long range and at in-fighting. He straightened the sailor up several times with nice uppercuts, and in the sixth round with the same punch for a short count.

Two heavyweights, Bannister and Sargant of the Carlisle went six rounds with the former taking the decision. The going was about even for the first three rounds with perhaps a shade to Bannister. In the fourth Sargant had a small edge. The fifth was even again. In the sixth Sargant straightened Bannister out of his crouch with an uppercut, and Bannister went to his knees for the count of four. The decision however was for Bannister on the early going.

Slogger Sam and Buster Bill, two 110 lbs. Filipino boxers gave a clever exhibition to a draw; Boy Fonseca 54 lbs. got a decision over Boy Kew 58 lbs, both of the club; Dealy of the Carlisle won a close decision over Cory of the Bee, completing the program.

Tonight seven bouts are listed. The final will be the star bout of the whole tournament between Seaman Bowdidge and Jock Harkins.

The semi-final will be between Yorke and Barnes to eight rounds.

GINK PROVES HIMSELF CHAMP

Pulls Great Chunk Of Strategy While Looking For Mushrooms

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear Old Pill of Mine:

You say that Gink and The Glutt fought like two perfect Americans. Well, I was there that night when the two boys fought for the gate receipts, which amounted to a rain check in the Sahara. Gink and The Glutt fiddled around so much that they got an offer from the Philharmonic Orchestra.

Catch up to that.

DOODLE FLYNN,
Buffalo.

Doodle is so wrong that he is almost right. But a man who doesn't know what he is talking about should keep right on talking to avoid questions.

We admit that Gink Fowler was so small that he thought a rathole was an Arch of Triumph. But Doodle Flynn slanders a famous man. A man he never heard of and a man that nobody ever heard of. Why should Doodle speak ill of a healthy man?

Still, it's our own fault for doodling around with Doodle. It was in the sixteenth round of the now famous Fowler-Glutt battle when Gink thought of a brilliant idea.

The world well knows that Gink had a hair-trigger mind.

We admit that it was more hair than trigger. But he suddenly started thinking and dove to the canvas like a student of flat rates.

He banged his skull on the boards three times. Thereby knocking himself out and saving the crown for himself.

The Glutt didn't knock Gink out. Gink knocked himself cold.

Therefore the Roughtown gang of referees awarded the fight to Gink, the only man who ever knocked himself out.

Willie Hoppe Quits After Losing Title

Chicago, April 4.—R. B. Benjamin, manager of Willie Hoppe, former world's billiard champion, announced today that Hoppe had retired from billiards.

Present day commercialism makes it impossible for Hoppe to regain his title within a year, Benjamin said, and as Hoppe is dissatisfied with the way in which billiard championship matches are conducted his only recourse is to retire.

Hoppe lost his championship, after holding it for many years, to Jake Schaeffer a few days ago.

ST. JOHN'S UNIVERSITY TAKES INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL TITLE BY WIN OVER SHANGHAI

Disqualification Of Shanghai's Star Guard Weakens Baptists After They Had Led Throughout Game; Three Goals In Quick Succession At Final Time Wins Game, 25-18

St. John's University won the East China Intercollegiate basketball title yesterday afternoon when they beat Shanghai Baptist College in the final game of a three-cornered play-off of a first position tie. The score was 25-18. It was the second successive win of the St. John's team.

The game was a keen tussle throughout with Shanghai leading at every stage by a score almost even, until within the last five minutes of play, four personal fouls by Bao Ging-di, left guard for the Baptists and one of the stars for the side forced him out of the game and the team, weakened by a substitute had three field goals piled up on them before the final whistle, and the game was lost.

The Shanghai college men had the game in good hand by half time by a score of 10-6. When Bao was disqualified and substituted, the score was at 19-18 in favor of St. John's, though chances were still even with perhaps an edge in favor of Shanghai in spite of the one point lead of the St. John's men. It was the substitution of their best guard that left the St. John's forward line open for easy scoring. Those fouls lost Shanghai the title.

Feng Dja-shen, the Shanghai center was the best man in the game though his forwards were scoring frequently and comparatively easily. Feng is one of the men who played with the Baptist championship team of 1920, when his college won the intercollegiate title. For St. John's T. T. Woo at left guard stood out strongly with his fine defensive work. C. T. Zung, the winners' center also shone, with fine passing and scoring of several goals from long shots.

The game was attended by practically the solid student bodies of three colleges, St. John's, Shanghai Baptist and Nanyang. The title was decided on the Nanyang court, Mr. T. T. Zee refereed the first half, and Mr. Gray the second. Play commenced at 3:15 p.m.

The teams lined up as follows:

St. John's		Shanghai
K. L. Loo	RF	Pan Shen-mei
Y. H. Ling	LF	Su Djen-tien
C. T. Zung	C	Feng Dja-shen

Sores from Wrist to Elbow
"Completely Healed"

Our portrait is of Mr. John Kidd, of 17, Mill Lane, Kilmarnock, Scotland, who writes: "My right arm became covered with sores from wrist to elbow and was useless for over two years. I tried different ointments and so-called cures, but they never did me any good. Then I tried your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and the sores soon began to heal up and never began to come back to my arm, so I persevered with the Mixture, and after having four bottles am glad to say my arm is completely healed up and I have now the full use of it." In a further letter over a twelvemonth later Mr. Kidd writes: "I have had no return of my complaint; my arm is still as sound as a bell and never troubles me in the least."

BRITISH PREMIER REITERATES HIS STAND ON SOVIET

(China Press Service)

London, April 4.—The vote of confidence was extremely satisfactory to Lloyd George because the Labprites, Independent Liberals, and Die-Hards to the number of about 150, all of whom might have been expected to oppose a confidence vote, cast their ballots for him.

Lloyd George in his address adopted a conciliatory tone toward Russia on the ground that England should seek accommodation with the Soviets and not waiting to deal with irreconcilables or the military regime which might involve the whole of Europe.

He intimated that it would be useless to await the overthrow of the Soviet. He stated that he did not believe the sincerity of Lenin's conversion to diluted communism, and that the innocuous Genoa question was a matter of confidence.

He gave the House of Commons eighty minutes of tense eloquence such as has not been experienced for months. Even his opponents were thrilled by the little Welsh Napoleon while the government and perhaps his own career was in the balance.

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, April 4.—M. Chicherin, the Soviet Commissary for Foreign Affairs, who is on his way to Genoa, was interviewed today by a representative of the Vossische Zeitung.

M. Chicherin expressed pleasure at Mr. Lloyd George's statement in the House of Commons on Monday to the effect that the most important task of the Conference would be the reduction of land armies. He eulogised the British Prime Minister's ideas regarding general peace and his reconstruction program.

Berlin, April 4.—According to a seemingly inspired communique the Russian demands at the Genoa Conference will be: freedom of shipping everywhere, recognition of the Soviet flag, free entry of Russian ships to all ports, restoration of Russian steamers abroad (this being about sixty percent of Russia's prewar mercantile fleet), compensation in kind for Russian steamers lost while in the service of foreign states and participation in any control commission for the Dardanelles.

Paris, April 4.—The Chamber of Deputies' motion mentioned yesterday expressed confidence that the Government would safeguard France's rights and interests at the Genoa Conference, thus, as leading articles in the newspapers emphasise, investing M. Poincare with adequate authority to represent France at the Conference.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

April 5, 1922

Spot bar silver was down ¼d. and forward ⅜d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 65⅛ cents, and the London-New York cross rate improved to 440⅛.

The only change in the official quotations here today was a drop in the Yen rate to 66¾.

Our market this morning at the opening was steady, with sellers of Sterling at 3-3⅝ for April-May and 3-3½ for June.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the opening at 73 for April and 72¾ for May-June.

As, however, one or two of the large banks were keen buyers, these rates eased off until as low as 3-3½ for April-May Sterling and 72⅝ for April and 72½ for May Gold Dollars was done.

After these banks had satisfied their requirements, rates steadied up and, in fact, late in the morning the market became quite firm and closed with sellers of Sterling at 3-3¾ for any delivery practically to June, and sellers of Gold Dollars at 73 for April and 72¾ for May-June.

China again sold silver in London yesterday and the market there is reported to have closed steady.

New York also report their market as being steady.

The Proposed Printed Matter By-Law

As announced by the Municipal Council the annual ratepayers' meeting for the current year has been convened for the 19th inst. at 2 p.m. Between 1:45 p.m. and 2:00 p.m., within the short interval of barely fifteen minutes, the resolutions on the agenda for the special meeting will be put before the ratepayers for their discussion (?) and approval or veto.

One of these resolutions is that known as the Printed Matter By-law against which there has been a vigorous protest among the local associations of Chinese newspapers and publishers. The by-law in question is so worded that its meaning is anything but clear to the casual reader. The requirements of the by-law in its present form are three-fold: registration, publication of the printer's name and dispersion. One particular point that deserves special attention in connection with the by-law is that the term PRINT is given, "for the purposes of this by-law," a meaning that it does not ordinarily possess, namely that it will "include any mechanical mode of reproduction."

Registration at his own Consulate in the case of a foreigner or at the Municipal Council is made compulsory for "any person who shall print or publish, or cause to be printed or published, any newspaper, pamphlet, circular, handbill, leaflet, placard or other paper containing public news, intelligence, or occurrences or any remarks or observations thereon."

When any paper whatsoever that is printed (or mechanically reproduced) that is meant to be published or dispersed, the printer (or the mechanical reproducer) must print thereon "his name and usual places of abode and business."

When any paper whatsoever that is printed (or mechanically reproduced) with the intent of being published or dispersed as defined in the preceding paragraph, and when the printer's (or mechanical reproducer's) name and address have not been printed on such paper as required by the by-law, the person who publishes or disperses same or who assists in publishing or dispersing same, shall become liable to the penalties prescribed in the by-law.

These penalties are likewise incurred by any person who fails to secure the registration PRIOR to printing or publishing anything that is news or observation on news as well as by any printer (or mechanical reproducer) who has omitted to print his name and address on anything he prints that is meant to be published or dispersed. The penalties prescribed for any one of these offences which under the by-law become PENAL OFFENCES are "a fine not exceeding three hundred dollars" or "imprisonment not exceeding three months" or "any such other penalty" as shall be prescribed by the law (there is NONE for these are new offences under British or American law) to which such person is amenable.

Perhaps not until the moment the special meeting of the ratepayers shall be held, i.e. on April 19, between 1:45 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. will the Municipal Council make any public statement as to the motive or motives by which it is actuated in proposing the by-law in question. It is obvious that the Council is seeking by virtue of this by-law nein powers which, in the opinion of the Council, should be vested in its hands. If the question were asked: "Why does the Council want new powers?" an answer to which the Council itself would readily subscribe will be this: "The Council is anxious to rid this Settlement of literature and general printed matter of a "seditious or scurrilous character or of a character that is calculated to incite to a breach of the peace or to the disturbance of good order."

Just as in 1919 when the Council sought to license the press and printing establishments and attempted to make a case of self-justification out of the students' strike, so it is not unlikely that capital will be made out of the "alarming reports" of Bolshevistic propaganda and labor unrest with which this Settlement is menaced. Arguments of this type have a psychological value that makes them appeal with apparent force to ratepayers who pursue the laissez-faire policy. But such ratepayers are happily in the minority among the Western population here as was evidenced at the voting of 1919 when the press licensing by-law was brought before the ratepayers.

Taking for granted that Bolshevism and doctrines calculated to disturb the peace and tranquility of the residents of this Settlement are making an inroad into the homes and offices and the factories of the local population, the glaring fact remains that, as it had been in the past so it will be in the future, the existing criminal laws of China and the foreign countries, to which the Council have time after time appealed with efficacy for the punishment of offences of a seditious nature, are perfectly adequate to deal with the very offences for the "prevention" of which the printed matter by-law is proposed. All that the Council could do with the support of popular approval is to devise measures whereby the identification of the authors of seditious or scurrilous literature may be facilitated, and this purpose could be accomplished by introducing a new regulation, not a by-law under article 35 of the Shanghai Land Regulations, which was framed to deal with furious riding and similar offences, making a printer liable for a reasonable fine when he does not print his name and address on literature of an inflammatory character. The criminal law will deal with the seditious aspect of such cases, and this adequately.

To go beyond this measure will be a distinct case of ultra vires for the Council would then be seeking to enforce a law that is outside the scope of its "control, power and authority." As a municipal body the Council must not be permitted to create new offences of a criminal nature, which would be the immediate effect of the present by-law.

It is as meaningless as it is preposterously unjust to call upon the general public in a manner that has no parallel, to register with the Council or with the Consulate before printing anything that contains news or that constitutes a comment on news.

To make the term "print" mean "any mechanical mode of reproduction" is equally absurd because by means of this sweeping classification all owners or users of duplicating machines and typewriters on which carbon copies are made, will be indiscriminately placed in the same group as professional printers or publishers who own printing machines properly so called.

Does the Council want or does it not want to establish an official censorship on all local publications and printed matter generally? If it does, the public has already openly repudiated its attempt to inflict censorial incompetence upon this community. This happened in 1919. If it does not aspire to the arbitrary powers of censorship, then registration would have no bearing whatsoever on the Council's avowed purpose of preventing the appearance or circulation of seditious literature.

Unless the type of printed matter that must bear on it the printer's name and address is duly specified, the Consular Courts and the Mixed Court would be too small to deal with the multitude of offences that would be continually created under the last section of the by-law—the section that deals with dispersion—because the local foreign firms are receiving regularly from the manufacturers at home printed catalogues and advertising literature and price lists which are certainly "meant to be dispersed" and which nevertheless are frequently received without the printer's name and address.

Moreover, how is the Council going to distinguish what is printed outside Shanghai from what is being printed in the International Settlement of Shanghai, the by-law being a dead letter outside the Settlement limits? Do we not see almost every day invitation cards, programs of theatrical performances or photo-play productions and prospectuses of schools and charitable enterprises, all of which is "meant to be dispersed," and yet how often do we see on such printed matter the printer's name plus his USUAL PLACES OF ABODE AND BUSINESS?

We must also not lose sight of the fact that it will be the illiterate coolies that will do the lion's share of the work of dispersing. Are they going to be each furnished by the Council with a pocket edition of a manual that gives all the names of the local printers—here we have in mind only the professional printers—, classified according to the 214 Chinese radicals or the number of strokes of the first character? Even if this manual could be supplied, would the Council be able by some miraculous process to give the coolies a sudden grasp on Chinese characters so that they will know how to consult the manual intelligently? Otherwise, how is the poor coolie going to see the flaw in the forged name of a printer who exists only in the imagination?

Reputable newspapers thrive or fail, hold the public confidence or lose it, by reason of their decisions as to what is fit to print, and what is right, useful and progressive. These decisions are made a hundred times a day by skilled and competent men whose names are well known in the community. This community is made up largely of widely traveled, well-educated and cultured men and women. The news and comment of the day are furnished to them by the same class. Do they wish to continue to get their news and comment from the source they are now receiving it or do they want it from the policeman appointed by some possible Municipal Council with an axe to grind or a certain policy to shove through?

Under this proposed measure, if it was now in existence, THE CHINA PRESS conceivably might be prevented from printing and publishing a comment and analysis of a proposed measure, such as you have now read.

Reds Claim Full Status At Genoa

If and when the Genoa conference is held the Soviet Government will insist on being treated as a sovereign State which is solidly established on a pacific basis and is indispensable to the economic restoration of the rest of the world. If it is so treated then the Government will do its utmost with its resources to help that economic restoration. If it is not so treated and conditions are imposed "incompatible with its political existence and it is treated as a colony," then nothing stable or profitable to any one will result from the conference.

These statements, with their implied threat, were made recently in Berlin to Jules Sauerwein, the Matin's foreign correspondent, by Rakovsky, President of the Soviet of Kiev, who will be one of the Russian delegates at Genoa.

Sauerwein has been conducting an inquiry into the attitude of the Soviet leaders toward the Genoa conference and he attaches very great importance to Rakovsky's statements because the Soviet leader is at present preparing a report on the prospective relations of France and Russia for submission to the Moscow authorities.

In his talk he outlined his conception of what these relations might be as a consequence of the actual conditions obtaining in both countries with a frankness which does not savor of cynicism and irony such as did the statements of Badek. First of all, he laid stress—presumably in answer to the criticism in M. Poincare's memorandum on this point—on the fact that private property is already recognised in Russia, and that after they have supplied a certain percentage of their produce for the common welfare, in just such fashion as other countries levy income tax the Russian farmers retain absolute right of proprietorship over their crops and herds.

In the manufacturing areas, he said, the output had considerably increased, and there was no ground whatever for the belief current in France that Russia is still in a state of anarchy.

Rakovsky then turned to the political situation of the country. In his own country, Ukraine, he said the Soviet authority was as uncontested as it was in Russia. The insurrections of last November were all begun at foreign instigation and were soon crushed by the peasants themselves. They only proved that if it were not for Soviet authority the whole country would quickly fall into anarchy, and it was as a sovereign government that the Soviets must be treated at any international conference. The exact words used by Rakovsky in describing this attitude and intention were:

"If other countries enter into relation with us to impose conditions on us incompatible with our political existence, if, in other words, they seek to treat us as a colony, nothing either stable or profitable will result from the conference. If, on the other hand, we are treated as a sovereign state essential to economic re-establishment of the world ought to be treated, then we can with our resources satisfy the desires of all powers."

Rakovsky, turning then to the past actions of the Soviet Government, declared roundly that never once had they taken the offensive. When they fought against Kolchak, against Denikin, and against the Poles they were on each occasion attacked and fought simply in their own defense.

Between France and Russia, he concluded, there should therefore easily be found some ground of accord. Only the question of the indebtedness of Russia divided them and on that point he declared the "economic revival of Russia and payments of debts ought to go hand in hand and if commercial contracts are re-established then we will pay without making difficulties and according to our capacity."

Of such fair words the French are naturally skeptical, but the impression is certainly growing in France that while caution is needed with people who have so often publicly announced that their word never bound them some advance must be made if France is to participate in any benefits from the reopening of Russia.

Lamont Feels China Must Give Up Old Cult

The Chinese must give up their cult of ancester worship if they are to take advantage of all the benefits which accrue to them from the conference at Washington, according to Thomas W. Lamont of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., the organiser of the fight on the famine in China a year ago and one of the leading authorities on that country in the United States.

The Chinese have the capacity, the industry and the character to make themselves a progressive modern nation, according to Mr. Lamont, but are obstructed in their progress by the lengths to which they carry forefather worship, which now influences most of their acts. On his recent visit to China, Mr. Lamont said that one far-sighted Chinese to whom he talked thought that the prospect of making a great and prosperous nation of China lay in the substitution of Christianity for Confucianism.

Mr. Lamont said that the gains made by the Chinese at Washington were enormous. While he praised the Japanese, he also mentioned the Chinese boycott of Japanese goods as a factor in the conciliatory attitude of Japan.

"No one can exaggerate the tremendous importance of the return of Shantung to the Chinese," he said. "We have heard of the matter for many months, it probably played its part in defeating the Treaty of Versailles in the Senate. So much had been said of it that when the Japanese agreed to return it, it was passed over in the newspapers rather lightly.

"But no one who has been in China recently could fail to realise the vital significance of this question. The news will be received with relief and delight beyond measure in China. The tremendous boycott against Japan, started by Chinese students, swept the whole country, and its effect on Japan was very unfavorable. This agreement now puts Japan out of the class of nations that need to be boycotted."

The right gained by China to raise tariffs on imports will be of tremendous advantage to China, Mr. Lamont said, in enabling China to secure loans for much needed railroads. Recent charges that the Chinese people were in a state of disorder were denied by him.

"There is no more orderly community than China in the world," he said. "The Government is disorderly, but the people are orderly. For instance, there were 23,000 arrests in Peking in one year—not so many considering the great size of its population—and of these only 345 were for a breach of the peace. That will indicate pretty well the orderly conduct of the citizens of China.

"The Chinese are a great, honest, frugal, industrious people, who love peace, who love their families who are moving on toward the light and are looking to us every moment for help."

Mr. Lamont said that no nation in the world's history had ever done one-tenth as much for China as the United States had a year ago in coming to her assistance in fighting the famine there. He said that the promptness and effectiveness of the work was largely due to John D. Rockefeller Jr., who not only gave a large sum himself, but underwrote expected contributions, thus enabling the commission to spend in the Spring money which was not actually subscribed until later.

"Few things have stirred the Chinese so much," he said, "as the great buildings of the Rockefeller medical center, going up in the center of Peking, to be the focus of medical education, sanitation and health for 400,000,000 people."

After extolling the vigor, patience and kindness of the Chinese character, he added:

"But the practice of ancestor worship, as it is carried on today, must change if China is to come into her own."

Four Great Scientific Worthies

BY GARRETT SERVISS

(Eminent Astronomer And Authority On Subjects Of Scientific Interest)

Sitting in a publisher's office the other day, I looked long and with deep interest at four portraits hung in a line on the wall. It was not that the portraits were unfamiliar to me, but that their grouping attracted attention and vividly recalled an age which passed only yesterday and yet today seems almost as deep sunk in time as the epoch of Roger Bacon.

The men who, side by side, looked down from the wall were Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Thomas H. Huxley and John Tyndall. They were the scientific champions of the nineteenth century, the Ivanhoes and disguised King Richards who could bear down in the lists all the Brain de Bois Guilberts and Reginald Front de Boeufs that dared to challenge the new faith of Evolution.

How historic they looked! How different from, and incomparably superior to, the modern, up-to-date, easy writers whose pictures were hung here and there in the neighborhood. They belonged not merely to a different generation but to a different intellectual type. There are no giants in these days, but they were giants in their day.

There was Darwin at the head of the row, standing for the initial of the sentence, whose every letter was weighty with meaning; Darwin, with heavy face, clublike nose, deep-sunk eyes, dull with depth, the beginner of a revolution in scientific thought.

Next to him hung Spencer, with bare, aspiring, moral dome, curls of electrified hair around his ears, childish chin and a general silk-surfaced look.

Third came Huxley, squareheaded, with immense eyebrows, piercing eyes, thick hair, sideboard whiskers and a jaw like General Grant's, the jaw of a man who could and would put a business through.

I thought of the time when, first whispering to a friend, "the Lord hath delivered him into mine hands," he intellectually mauled poor Bishop Wilberforce at a meeting of scientists and thinkers into which the bishop had temerariously ventured for the purpose of running at tilt against the new doctrines.

At the end of the row was John Tyndall, carrying a queer roll of whisker, relatively small-headed like Emerson, but like Emerson, too, with a nose that fairly radiated intelligence. In power of exposition Tyndall was the prince of them all. He truly made science a fairy tale.

Some may dispute the statement that we see no such giants in our time; but it is true. A giant is an individual member of a species who rises almost immeasurably above his fellows and whose superior stature is universally evident. Science knows none like that now. Not Einstein, not J. J. Thomson, not anybody.

This is an age that would not recognise such superiority, or admit it even if it existed. It is an age of universal ambition, and universal striving toward the top. There is plenty of mutual admiration—a pat for a pat—and plenty of class envy, but to general consensus elevating any one to a height of authority where he stands alone, unapproachable and unquestioned.

In science specialisation has gone so far since the time of Darwin, Spencer, Huxley and Tyndall that, until a great melting down and refining of the accumulated ore has occurred, there will be no possibility of the rise of a new leader resembling any one of them. At present each branch of science is subdivided and parceled out to special workers, until in the majority of cases, the men who have gone farthest and deepest are just those who know least about their science in its broader aspects, and who would be incapable of championing it against a new opposition, as Huxley championed evolution.

Tyndall could with one hand explore nature and her laws and with the other himself deal out to the public mind, as well as to the minds of his fellow scientists, the integrated results of his work. In this he was doing what Faraday had done before him, but what no original scientific worker is doing, or can do, in any such manner today.

The tendency, now so strong, to put all science into a mathematical dress, and to handle it with mathematical gloves, constitutes another difficulty for the investigator when he undertakes to explain what he is doing to people who have not acquired the mathematician's habit of thought, or his way of approaching things.

One manifest reason why there are no such towering personalities in science visible today as were seen in the nineteenth century is because the woods are so thick now that the greater trees rise up into a lofty canopy of foliage, where their tops are lost to sight from below. Some who know the massiveness of their bases may make a good guess at the height of their crowns, but the general public will never know their real stature until the world has drifted on through time to a viewpoint whence a backward look may reveal the truth by showing the projecting heads of the giants.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy and retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse. It causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
J. E. SIMPSON, M. D., Chicago, Ill.

"A medicine so valuable and beneficial for children as your Castoria is deserves the highest praise. I find it in use everywhere."
J. S. ALEXANDER, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"Have used your Castoria on various occasions in suitable cases and have found it a palatable and efficient laxative, especially in the various diseases of childhood."
CHAS. EDWARD GARDINER, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, and always obtain the desired result."
F. GERALD BLATTNER, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I have prescribed Castoria in families for several years. It is all right. Mothers like it, for children will take it without any trouble."
C. A. WILSON, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children."
J. A. BOARMAN, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.

Engraving Bureau Cleanup Caused By Inefficiency—Mellon

(China Press Service)

Washington, April 4.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon made a statement today, asserting that politics had nothing to do with the cleanup in the Bureau of Engraving.

"The only reason employes were dismissed was because of their inefficiency," he said. "The investigation showed much waste in the Bureau."

"Former employes of the Bureau claim that they are not aware of the reasons for their dismissal and they have attributed it to 'politics.' This is not the case as 18 Republicans and eight Democrats were dismissed as the result of the investigation."

BOMB IN BUDAPEST

(Special To The China Press)

Budapest, April 4.—Three were killed and thirty injured when a bomb exploded in the quarters of the Business Democratic Club here tonight. The explosion came just after 600 guests of the club had departed but before the members of the opposition party had arrived. Red Cross headquarters were notified and rushed first aid to the wounded. The reason for the outrage is still a mystery on which the police are at work.
